Curriculum Details
Curriculum type : Non-local
Curriculum planning
At Kendall, we take the guiding principles of the U.S. Creative Curriculum and marry it with the essence of Chinese values. The result is a powerful mixture that captures the best of both worlds and provides our students with the ideal educational foundation they need at this stage of their development. We are confident that our unique approach will best equip our students for their future learning endeavours.
Learning / Teaching approach & activities
Young children come in all different shapes, sizes and readiness levels to learn. No one exactly the same, they are individuals who come to life's stage with a variety of talents, gifts and poise. Each one occupying a different developmental stage than any other - they are unique. Kendall International Preschool embraces their uniqueness and combines it with the power of purposeful and constructive play. While many of us think of play as leisure activities, the research on its impact on young children's cognitive development and learning is undisputed. Purposeful play has a critical role in the development of logical and diverse thinking, problem solving and a child's acquisition of social skills. An excellent vehicle for children to learn to observe, solve, compare, sort and sequence, the child's knowledge grows as they experiment, make discoveries and shift their own thinking as they incorporate new insights. Play is a crucial vehicle for exploring and learning, developing new skills, building relationships and connecting with others.
Assessment of children's learning experiences
Each student is continuously reviewed under the benchmark milestones of the U.S. based Creative Curriculum. These benchmarks are researched based on the universal developmental needs of young children. It is our firm belief that a continuous observation approach optimizes the capturing of the dynamic and uniqueness of each and every child - thus enabling our teachers to tweak and adjust their programs, approaches and learning activities in order to maximize growth and development. Every child is unique and our Creative Curriculum provides us a tremendous platform to grow along with each child.
